

Privacy Policy

Your privacy is important and Mobility for U, LLC., wants you to understand our practices with respect to gathering information from clients. We strive to assure the privacy and accuracy of your confidential information.

All personal information that Mobility for U gathers from our rental documents or our website remains strictly confidential and proprietary. We NEVER sell, barter or give away any personal information to third parties. This private information will only be accessed by Mobility for U.

Mobility for U assures the proper handling of consumer information to prevent unauthorized access or identity theft. We do this by taking every reasonable means to assure your information can not be accessed by anyone except you.

If an individual who uses or visits our website wishes to review or request changes to any of his or her personally identifiable information, he or she may contact Mobility for U to request a review or change.

If you have any questions about this privacy statement, you may contact:
